

Read your book thoroughly.

You might even want to take notes, if inspiration strikes while you are reading! Make sure this is a book you love; if you'd rate it less than an 8 out of 10, find a different book!

Open strong!

Think about starting your booktalk by asking a question: "What scares you the most?" Or start by giving your thoughts on a character you loved: "This is the bravest dog I've ever met." Don't start with something predictable like "This book is called..." or "This book is about..." Surprise and excite your audience!

Find a hook.

Consider your audience. Is there some element of this story that you know will especially interest your peers? Perhaps there's intense magic, or an adorable dog, or a talented surfer? Think about the aspects of the story that made it engaging for you.

Don't give it all away.

Think of this like a preview, not a whole movie. Leave them begging for more! End with a cliffhanger such as, "Will he get out in time?" Remember, the idea is to get them interested enough to want to read the book.

Enhance your presentation with props.

Carry an umbrella for a book about a rainy day, or wear a cap for a book about baseball. Be creative! Just be sure not to wear anything that will muffle your sound, such as a mask. What you are saying is much more important than how you look!

Suggest other great reads.

"If you liked _____ then you'll love this!" Think of a similar book which you know was a hit in your school or classroom.

Have fun!
